Lark Rise to Candleford

Many family historians are interested in more than simply collecting names, dates and places related to their ancestors. They want to know about how their ancestors lived. To that end, for genealogists with roots in 19th-century rural England, I can't recommend any book more highly than Flora Thompson's Lark Rise to Candleford.

Flora Thompson was born in 1876, in a hamlet on the borders of Oxfordshire and Northamptonshire. She published poetry, but is best remembered for Lark Rise to Candleford, an elegantly written autobiographical trilogy, chronicling her childhood and youth experiences in the hamlet in which she was born, the nearby village, and a small market town. Reviewers have described it as "observed with an eye, and a heart, that missed nothing" and "one of the most sensitive memorials of Victorian rural England".

I was captivated by this book when I first read it, and would include it on my list of books to take to a desert island. Lark Rise to Candleford is a charming, compelling and personal portrait of a vanished time and place – a real treasure.

Interlibrary Loans - Now Online

Genealogists wishing to request microfilms and other materials from external archives and libraries such as of the Archives of Ontario and the Library and Archives of Canada can now place requests online. All that's needed is a Vancouver Public Library card. Go to the Vancouver Public Library catalogue at ipac2.vpl.ca/ and click on InterLibrary Loan (in the blue bar). Complete and submit the online form and you're done! The Library will contact you when your material has arrived. Note that not all archives and libraries make their materials available through ILL.

Brian W. Hutchison Genealogical Scholarship

The Alberta Family Histories Society has announced the availability of the above scholarship, in the amount of $500, to be awarded annually to a Canadian resident. The scholarship is to be used towards the cost of tuition and books, for the recipient to study the field of genealogy and family history in a recognized educational or accreditation program. The deadline for the applications for the 2005 award is December 31, 2004. More information available at:

www.afhs.ab.ca/scholarship/

B.C. Vital Statistics - Changes to Access

In future, you'll have to wait even longer to get access to B.C. vital records. On June 4, 2004, the Vital Statistics Amendment Act (S.B.C. 2004, c.55) came into force. The new Act increases restrictions on who may access vital records and significantly increases time frames governing their release.

Perhaps most significantly for genealogists, birth registrations will not be generally released until more than 120 years have passed since the birth of the person for whom the certificate is being sought. The previous public release date was 100 years after birth. Public release of dates for marriages (after 75 years) and deaths (after 20 years) remain unchanged.

Anyone will be able to obtain a birth registration for any person who has been deceased for more than 20 years. And any person will be able to obtain marriage certificates if both parties to the marriage have been deceased for 20 years or more or if more than 75 years have passed since the marriage.

Is Your Name Pimbury?

If your name – or the name of anyone you know – is Pimbury, please contact Mike Pimbury immediately! Mr. Pimbury, age 73, of North London, believes that he is possibly the only living Pimbury in the world. Mr. Pimbury has no children, and fears that his name will die with him. Researchers in the U.K., Canada, Australia and New Zealand have not been able to find anyone else with the same name. E-mail: info@people-search.co.uk

Order English and Welsh Birth, Marriage and Death Certificates over the Internet

The General Register Office (U.K.) is offering a new online service to genealogists. As of July 2004, researchers around the world can order birth, marriage and death certificates for England and Wales over the Internet. The service was extended to international customers following a successful pilot service for U.K. residents.

To order pre-1900 birth, marriage and death certificates, you will need the GRO Index number. Payment must be made online by credit card, and the cost for each certificate is 7 pounds. The service was recently tested by a Vancouver resident, and the certificate was received one week after the order had been submitted online.

To use the online certificate ordering service, go to:

The biggest hurdle to using this new service may be obtaining the GRO Index number, if you don't already have it. If you can't travel to the Family Records Centre in London, one of the following options may help:

FreeBMD

- This ongoing volunteer-based project is aimed at transcribing the civil registration indexes for England and Wales, and providing free online access to the transcribed records. Almost 100 million records have already been entered. FreeBMD is available at: <http://freebmd.rootsweb.com/>

Family History Centres

- Many of the birth, marriage and death indexes for England and Wales are available on microfilm or microfiche at the local Family History Centres in Burnaby and Surrey.

1837 online.com

- This website contains an entire digitized copy of the indexes of births, marriages and deaths for England and Wales beginning in 1837. Note, however, that access is not free; it is "pay-per-view". Available at: www.1837online.com

Our Roots / Nos Racines: Canada's Local Histories Online

The Canadian Culture Online program of the Department of Canadian Heritage has partnered with institutions across Canada to provide Canadians with online access to Canadian local histories. The unique "Our Roots" website comprises digitized copies of hundreds of accounts of the history and heritage of cities, towns, and regions across Canada. The local histories are accessible by keyword search, or, if you prefer, browse Title, Author or Subject lists. Local histories often refer to local residents by name, and can broaden your knowledge of the times and places in which your ancestor lived. "Our Roots" is free, and is available at: www.ourroots.ca

Eastman Genealogy Newsletter

While you're waiting for the next quarterly issue of the VPL Genealogical Resources Newsletter, you might want to consider subscribing to Eastman's Genealogy Newsletter, an online daily compendium of genealogical news and information. The EOGN is published daily, and is available as both a free, standard edition and a "Plus Edition" ($19.95 U.S. annually). Content is wide-ranging, and numerous links to additional genealogical news items are provided. To subscribe to either the standard or Plus Edition of Eastman's Genealogy Newsletter, go to: www.eogn.com/home/

Scrapbook Your Family History

"Scrapbooking" is a popular new hobby that involves showcasing photographs – of children, travel, etc. – in creative album layouts incorporating specialty papers, stickers, fancy borders, etc. (For examples, go to www.bhg.com/bhg/crafts/ and follow the "Scrapbooking" link. This is one of many websites on which you'll find lots of scrapbooking information and ideas).

"Family History" is a favourite scrapbooking theme, and the hobby is an ideal way of presenting and preserving the results of your genealogical research in an attractive, interesting way. The Vancouver Public Library collection includes many books on scrapbooking, including the following titles that focus specifically on scrapbooking your family history:

To request any of the preceding titles, go to our online Library Catalogue at ipac2.vpl.ca/ or call 604-331-3603.
