Microfilm Digitization Project

FamilySearch has announced the completion of their massive microfilm digitization project. Read about it here.

Also, learn about the changes and updates to your online experience of FamilySearch here.

Restricted FamilySearch Images Available at VPL's Central Library

Sometimes when you are looking at records at FamilySearch.org you'll see an image labelled,

This used to mean that you needed to visit a Family History Centre to view the image. Now you can come down to the Central Library at 350 West Georgia and use any of our public computers to view the image. You will be able to save the image on a USB stick or email it to yourself.

With the completion of the microfilm digitization project, more images than ever are available for viewing.

Please note that some digital images may still have privacy, copyright, contractual, or other restrictions which limit access even at the Central Library.

Tour of the BC Archives

Guest Speaker: Genevieve Weber

Sunday, November 21, 2021

2:00 p.m.

Friends of the B.C. Archives
Zoom Presentation

Built in 1969, the BC Archives building is architecturally interesting, and houses some of the province's most significant historical records. As we look to the future in a new building, take a trip down memory lane at 655 Belleville Street. This visit will take you behind the scenes, albeit virtually, uncovering some of the secrets of this beloved site. Together we will wander through the orange stacks, peruse the historic library collection, and peek inside drawers. Join us for a research visit unlike any other.

Genevieve Weber has been an outreach archivist and community liaison with the BC Archives since 2016. She has the privilege of working with Indigenous communities from all over the province, assisting with research requests, providing access to records, and facilitating workshops on topics such as researching community history and Indigenous genealogy. Other programs delivered include family history workshops, special interest workshops, community tours, introductory class visits, and school activities. She is passionate about engaging people of all ages with the archives, and enjoys public speaking.

For more information visit the Upcoming Events page of the Friends of the B.C. Archives.
